

FOR THE CATALOGER

Listing the items

You put the chapter's donations in front of the bidders. An honest description and a decent photo are worth more to the total than anything else on this page.

Auctions

Each auction has its own items, goal and running total. Start a new one whenever the chapter fundraises again — the total begins at zero.

3 Describe it honestly

Title, condition, who provided it. Say what is worn — bidders trust a listing that admits a scratch.

☐ Save this for the live auction
Online bidding still runs and sets the opening price, but the lot doesn't close on its own — the auctioneer sells it at the event.

What the cataloger role can and cannot do

Deliberately narrow: it is the access that lets you do the job, and nothing that could break an auction in progress.

● You can

- ✓ Add, edit and withdraw items in any auction
- ✓ Upload photos — they are shrunk for you, so phone photos are fine
- ✓ Mark a lot to be held back for the live finale, with its lot number

● You cannot

- ✗ Open or close an auction
- ✗ See the winners list, payments or anyone's contact details
- ✗ Change what anyone else is allowed to do

Items go live immediately

If the auction is already open, an item you add is biddable the moment you save it. Add it when it is ready, not before.

Photos do the selling

Daylight, a plain background, and one photo of any flaw. Several photos are better than one.

The reserve is a hidden floor

If bidding never reaches it the item does not sell. Set it only where the provider truly needs a minimum.
